TAX WRITERS PREPARE FOR FINAL VOTING

Washington, June 12 — (AP) — House tax writers agreed to start final voting today on a string of controversial excise tax increases calculated to bring in about $1,000,000,000 more a year.

These are among the last major decisions to be made by the ways and means committee on the 1951 tax bill which now totals about $7,500,000,000 according to the committee's revenue experts.

The proposed excise tax boosts, all tentatively approved earlier, include:

Whisky and other liquor, from $9 a 100-proof gallon to $10.50; beer from $8 a barrel to $9; wine tax increases averaging about 126 per cent above present rates.

Automobiles from seven per cent to ten; trucks, buses and automobile parts and accessories from five to eight per cent.

Gasoline from 1½ cents a gallon to two cents.

Cigarettes from seven cents a package to eight cents.

In addition, numerous household electrical appliances would be added to a list bearing a ten per cent tax at the manufacturer's level. Included are electric dishwashers, clothes dryers, lawnmowers, floor polishers and razors.

The committee, in a series of votes yesterday, affirmed a number of previous tentative decisions. They were final, but the entire bill is still subject to approval. Important steps taken yesterday included:

Withholding at the rate of 20 per cent voted for dividends in interest and royalty payments.

Continuation of all existing depletion allowances granted the owners of oil wells and mines in figuring their income taxes. Sand, gravel, stone and some other non-metallic minerals were added to the list.

Special exemption from the capital gains tax on gains made on the sale of a personal dwelling place when the owner purchases a new home for his own use within a year. This provision would be retroactive to last Jan. 1.

Unmarried heads of families to receive one-half the income tax benefits available to married persons by reason of the income-splitting provision of the present tax laws.

An increase of one-eighth in the effective maximum rate of the capital gains tax, in line with the one-eighth (12½ per cent) increase voted by the committee in individual income taxes. The capital gains rate will go up from 25 per cent to 28½ per cent.

Wedemeyer Says MacArthur Rejected Request for Troops To Help Safeguard Manchuria

Washington, June 12 — (AP) — Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer testified today that he asked for seven American divisions to safeguard Manchuria from Russian penetration after Japan's defeat but was turned down by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Wedemeyer at that time was U. S. commander in China.

Testifying for the second day at the senate inquiry into MacArthur's dismissal, Wedemeyer said he wanted to employ the American troops in Manchuria "to preclude unilateral action on the part of the Soviet in that area until the situation stabilized."

He said another purpose he had in mind was to secure the arms of the Japanese troops in Manchuria for the Chinese Nationalist forces and so keep them out of the hands of the Communists.

His request for the seven U. S. divisions was referred to MacArthur as the Far East commander. Wedemeyer said MacArthur was uncertain about how the Japanese would react to the occupation of their homeland and declined to make the troops available.

Now commander of the U. S. Sixth Army, with headquarters at San Francisco, Wedemeyer has applied for retirement. He is 55.

In his first day in the witness chair, he sharply criticized the Truman administration's Korean war policies and said he would favor withdrawing U. S. troops from Korea and breaking off diplomatic relations with Russia and her satellites.

Senator Knowland (R., Calif.) developed Wedemeyer's account of his efforts to safeguard Manchuria at the end of World War Two.

Knowland led into the matter by questioning Wedemeyer about the 1945 Yalta agreement under which Russia received concessions in Manchuria as an inducement to enter the war against Japan.

He had asked if Manchuria were not "pretty much the key to China," and Wedemeyer had replied that it often has been referred to as "the Ruhr of the Far East."

(The Ruhr is the steel-coal area of western Germany and has been called the heart of industrial Europe.)

Wedemeyer said that he visualized placing the U. S. divisions "up in the north, placing a barrier there so that I would know what was going on and could influence what was going on." He added:

"I would have liked to have been able to take over the arms and the equipment of the defeated Japanese forces, instead of having those arms and equipment available to the Communists."

In telling of his request for seven American divisions to be employed in Manchuria, Wedemeyer said there was no way of knowing at the time that the Japanese people would be "docile and cooperative" under the occupation of their homeland.

"He (MacArthur) required those divisions in his occupation of Japan; and he refused to make them available to me; and there were no other divisions made available," Wedemeyer said.

Wedemeyer said that when he was in China after World War II he felt that if "a large sum of money could be raised by the Chinese themselves—schools built, conditions improved in the country, particularly for the working class, that would do much to impress the people with the sincerity of purpose (of the Chinese government) and with the determination to give the people an honest rule and opportunities in the economic field."

Warren Seaman Is Injured in Flash Fire at Cuba Base

A Warren youth was one of 11 men injured in a flash fire at Guantanamo Bay Naval Base in Cuba on Saturday, according to Washington. The fire claimed the lives of six other men.

The local youth injured was Seaman Thomas Herbert Lundberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Lundberg, of Venturatown, A.

Offer Plan to Reduce Proposed Income Tax to One-Fourth of One Per Cent

Harrisburg, June 12 — (AP) — A compromise plan to reduce Gov. John S. Fine's proposed state income tax to one-fourth of one per cent was discussed today at the state capital.

One source said Republican senators might consider such a plan at their Friday conference if sufficient cuts could be made in appropriations to balance the state's budget.

The lower rate income tax was one of several suggestions that have developed in speculation at the capital in advance of the Friday caucus. Another is a mercantile tax as a substitute for the income levy.

The executive's proposed income levy of one per cent has been stalled in the senate for weeks due to refusal of eleven GOP senators—enough for its defeat—to support the tax. The Friday caucus was called in another effort to work out a solution.

Fine presented the $119,000,000 income tax bill as part of his $183,000,000 tax program to balance the state's budget of $1,220,000,000 budget for the next two years.

One bill increasing the corporate net income tax from four to five per cent was adopted without difficulty. It would raise $44,000,000 in two years.

An income tax of one-fourth of one per cent—$2.50 on each $1,000 of income—would yield about $60,000,000. Under the compromise suggestion, a similar cut would be made in appropriations without endangering state services.

RETIRED EUB PASTOR IS DEAD IN ERIE

Erie, June 12 — (AP) — Funeral services will be held tomorrow for the Rev. Arthur B. Hoshack, 60, a retired pastor of the Evangelical United Brethren church. He died yesterday of a heart attack in his home here.

Mr. Hoshack retired four years ago because of ill health. He previously served in churches at Freedom, Carver, Indiana, Ligonier, Greenville, and DuBois. He was treasurer of the Pittsburgh conference of the EUB church.

COMMUNISTS LOSE MAJOR CITIES IN ITALIAN ELECTION

Rome, June 12 — (AP) — Premier Alcide De Gasperi's Christian Democrats and Allied Pro-Atlantic pact parties today had stripped Communists of administrative control in three major Italian cities.

They had won in seven others on the basis of latest returns from the round of Italian local elections.

In Turin — Italy's automobile capital until now run by the Communists — the anti-Communist bloc held its grip on the important southern port city of Taranto and appeared to have won eight other provincial capitals as returns mounted from Sunday's and yesterday's balloting in 2,161 municipalities in 30 provinces.

As in the May 17 administrative and June 3 Sicilian regional elections, the Neofascist Italian Social Movement (MSI) again provided fireworks, winning a scattering of seats in communal councils. The party had 82,320 votes in incomplete returns from 15 of the 30 provincial capital elections.

Anti-Communist parties won historic Florence and Pisa from the Communists, as well as Piacenza. The election was Italy's third in three weeks. On May 27 provincial and municipal councils were picked in 2,735 cities and 28 provinces. On June 3 Sicily elected a new regional assembly.

Reds Retreat in Eastern Korea to Avoid Flanking Threat After Loss of Triangle

SAYS WORLD'S OIL SUPPLY IN NO JEOPARDY

Tehran, Iran, June 12 — (AP) — Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadeq has assured President Truman Iran's plans to nationalize her oil industry will not jeopardize the world's oil supply, nor imperil international harmony.

The wrinkled little statesman who has been secluded in two rooms of his country's parliament building sent these assurances in a lengthy letter transmitted to Washington yesterday through the U. S. embassy.

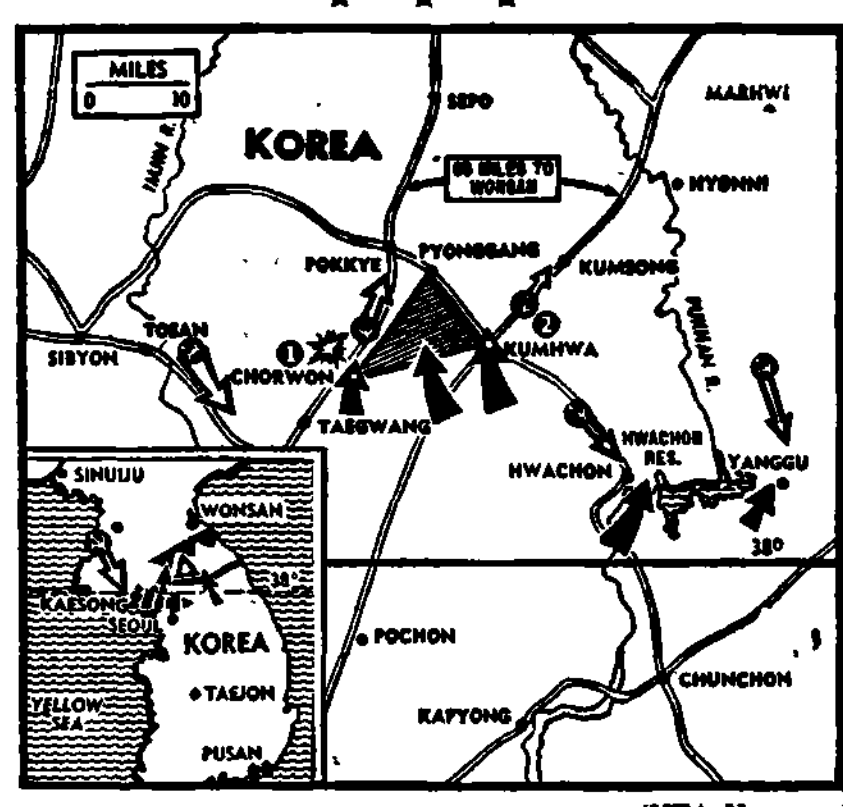

The contents of Mossadeq's letter were disclosed as top officials of Britain's Anglo-Iranian Oil Company planned courtesy calls on government heads here prior to the opening of talks on the nationalization of Iran's oil industry operated by the company.

Mossadeq's letter was in reply to President Truman's recent appeal to Iran and Britain for moderation and reasonable negotiations on the explosive oil issue.

No Iranian officials turned up at the airport for the arrival of two directors and four other officials of the British-owned oil company, whose vast holdings here Iran's parliament has ordered nationalized.

With the rest of the billion-dollar oil company's delegation—including two other directors—due today, negotiations on the take-over may start tomorrow.

Iran's flag floated symbolically over the company's giant refinery near Abadan—the world's largest, after a peaceful ceremony yesterday at which Iranian directors named to operate the nationalized company were installed in a refinery office allocated them by the British management.

TRIANGLE'S BASE COLLAPSES—UN forces, in twin drives, pushed through Chorwon (1) and Kumhwa (2), southern bases of Reds' Iron Triangle. Communists were streaming north. Eastward, enemy resistance was dwindling north of Hwachon and Yanggu. Westward, northwest of Seoul, Reds began ominous move southward in Kaesong area (inset; strip-shaded arrow) for possible blow against western flank of Allies.

Mobilization Chief Rejects Demands Of Cattle Industry For Price Relief

Washington, June 12 — (AP) — Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson today rejected demands of the cattle industry for price relief in four words—"the rollbacks are firm."

Wilson told a news conference there is no plan to relax either the present 10 per cent rollback on the price of live cattle or the scheduled rollbacks of 4½ per cent each in August and October.

He conceded that "we will be in a terrible mess" if cattle raisers cut off the flow of beef to market.

He said he hoped they would not. When asked whether his office of defense mobilization had any plans for rationing if the flow were curtailed, he replied with emphasis: "No."

Wilson said he found it difficult to "piece together" the reactions of cattlemen to the price rollbacks. They are designed to bring about a 10-cent-a-pound reduction in butcher shop prices by next fall.

Some cattlemen seem to feel that the steps taken by the office of price stabilization were reasonable. At right, Wilson said, while others vigorously attack them as being "very wrong."

OPS Director DiSalle was reported to be preparing a new statement, possibly for issuance today, on the beef situation.

NEW MODERATOR FOR PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD

Grove City, June 12 — (AP) — The synod of Pennsylvania, Presbyterian church, U. S. A., today installs its new moderator, the Reverend William H. Galbreath of Shippensburg.

Mr. Galbreath was elected at the opening session of the annual convention. He succeeded Jesse S. Bell, an elder of the Williamsport First Presbyterian Church, who delivered a sermon last night on "The Importance of Laymen in a Growing Church."

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was held with more than 500 ministers and elders participating. A memorial service also was held for ministers of the synod who died during the past year.

Two temporary clerks were named by the delegates. They are T. D. Taylor of the Erie Presbytery and Raymond D. Walter of the Beaver Presbytery. The synod meeting ends Friday.

Committee Plans Investigation In City of Reading

Reading, June 12 — (AP) — The mayor of Reading, members of the city council, the city solicitor and police chief have been called to appear before the U. S. senate crime investigating committee.

R. P. S. McConnell, assistant chief counsel for the committee, announced last week that five Reading residents had been subpoenaed to appear before the committee. Investigators for the committee have been inquiring into gambling operations in Berks county.

McConnell said the witnesses have been told to take with them all ledgers, cancelled checks, vouchers, bank deposit slips, bank and other financial statements, notes, copies of tax returns and records of tax receipts and disbursements from their businesses since Jan. 1, 1940, until now.

Subpoenaed yesterday were Mayor John F. Davis, councilmen J. Clinton Bach, Charles H. Stoner, John A. Gingrich and Jerome J. Staab, city solicitor C. Wilson Austin, police chief William B. Hiney, detective Lt. Albert M. Hoffman, patrolman Charles Dentith and district attorney John E. Ruth.

McConnell said those subpoenaed had been directed to appear before the committee headed by Sen. Herbert D. O'Connor (D-Md) June 15.

Reports of New Enemy Buildup Are Heard as Communists Pull Back From the Fighting Front

Tokyo, June 12 — (AP) — Three long columns of Reds fled through east Korea's mountains today to escape being trapped by Allied tanks rumbling through their fallen "iron triangle."

Stout new defense lines protected the Reds' retreat from the east-central front.

United Nations troops mopped up Reds in hills around captured Chorwon and Kumhwa. The towns formed the southern anchors of the Pyonggang valley iron triangle buildup area. Chinese headed for the hills on each side of the valley.

American tanks striking up roads from the triangle to the east coast would cut squarely across the Red escape route from the eastern front.

While Reds were pulling back from the fighting fronts, unverified reports cropped up that they were building up new forces only 30 miles northwest of Seoul. The buildup was reported in the Kaesong-Korango area.

This is near the foot of the Allied western flank. This flank drags southwest of the main front. It reaches from Chorwon to a point 35 miles to the southwest, running roughly along the banks of the Imjin river.

While the U. N. counterattack has pushed northward along a narrowing front, patrols have probed this long flank daily for signs of Red strength.

The jagged northern front has been cut to about 75 miles. At the height of the Communist offensive it was 125 miles long.

Front line dispatches and army releases Tuesday night reported little action. They gave this picture:

West flank: Probing patrols found few Reds. But they ran into heavy artillery and mortar fire southwest of Chorwon.

Central front: Allies catching up with armored spearheads advanced as much as 5½ miles south of the triangle in hot clear weather. They were unopposed.

"Iron Triangle": U. N. troops took over large caches of supplies abandoned in the Chinese flight from Chorwon, once the southwest anchor of the triangle. Mustang fighter pilots blasted pack animals the Reds used to cart equipment out of Pyonggang at the triangle's peak. Tanks pushed out of Kumhwa, southeast corner of the triangle. They battled Reds dug in on both sides of the road to Kumhwa, new Communist buildup point 12 miles to the northeast.

East Central: North Koreans made sporadic stands against advancing Allies. U. N. patrols pushed for miles through war scarred hills before finding Red holding forces, or encountered none at all.

"Precisely what is happening on the front is hidden by tightening military censorship.

(Few front line dispatches have been permitted to come through in

Texas Cities to Give Big Welcome To the MacArthurs

Austin, Tex., June 12 — (AP) — This capital of Texas will give Gen. Douglas MacArthur an engraved seal of the city and a rousing welcome when he starts his four-day visit of the state. But that's as far as it will go.

State Senator John Bell, chairman of the legislative arrangements committee, suggested to Mayor W. S. Drake, Jr., of Austin that perhaps Austin isn't trying to compete with "our richer neighbors."

Houston, where he makes his second Texas appearance, has rolled out a Cadillac which will be given to him.

Anyway, Austin is ready for the coming of the five-star general tomorrow and Gov. Allan Shivers is going to give him a big "Hello General."

As preparations were completed for MacArthur's welcome in his four-day flying visit, another city was added to the list. Galveston got into the act—the sixth Texas city to see the general.

MacArthur goes from here to Houston tomorrow and Thursday afternoon will drive to Galveston for a two-hour visit. There will be no speech.

Gov. and Mrs. Shivers will be at the municipal airport to greet MacArthur, wife, son and party. Later, MacArthur will address a joint session of the Texas legislature on the state capital steps. There may be 50,000 persons on the grounds.

At Houston, 500,000 are expected to watch a parade. Thursday the general will speak in the 70,000-seat Rice Institute football stadium. Friday he goes to San Antonio with another half-million due to see him. Then Friday night he flies to Dallas for an address in the Cotton Bowl. Saturday he will make his last Texas appearance—at Fort Worth.

Choice Cuts of Beef to be on Scarce List in Many Shops Within Few Days

Chicago, June 12 — (AP) — Choice cuts of beef, it appeared today, are going to be on the scarce list in many of the nation's butcher shops in a few days.

There still is beef in shops across the country, a survey showed. But the continued slump in cattle marketing, packing spokesmen said, will mean an extremely tight retail supply of beef soon.

After a week of price controls for live beef animals, there appeared no indication of a boost in supplies. Yesterday's cattle shipments to the country's 12 major livestock centers were substantially below normal. Beef processing by leading packers, as during last week, remained drastically curtailed.

Cattle shipments totaled 38,500, the lowest run for a Monday since Feb. 14, 1949 and 6,000 fewer than last Monday. Packing spokesmen expressed doubt about prospects of any substantial increase in slaughtering this week. Three of the biggest packers, Swift, Armour, and Wilson, reported they did no slaughtering in their big Chicago plants yesterday.

The major packers contend that Office of Price Stabilization controls made it impossible to purchase any more than token numbers of cattle.

But Michael DeSalle, the government's price stabilizer, said problems of meat controls are being ironed out and production will be "nearly normal" within a few weeks.

Los Angeles, June 12 — (AP) — Full scale meat rationing seems likely within a few weeks, says Charles Bauer, President of the National Association of Retail Meat and Food Dealers.

Bauer, a member of the retail advisory committee of the OPS, says that if this does come to

Air Force Unable To Meet June Goal

Washington, June 12 — (AP) — The Air Force says it will be unable to meet its June 30 manpower goal of 850,000, and a lack of volunteers may soon cause it to reach for draftees.

Previously, only the army has taken draftees. The Air Force, like the Navy and Marines, have filled their quotas with volunteers. The Air Force enlisted 56,000 volunteers in January, but the May figure was only 11,000. Army figures for the same months were 29,000 and 9,000. Navy and Marine volunteering has also slackened.

Cole Hill Services Are Discontinued For the Summer

Cole Hill, June 12—The Youth for Christ rallies, which have been held each Friday night at eight o'clock in the Torpedo community church, have been discontinued until August. Rev. L. C. Stuart, Oil City, who has been conducting these services, will be in charge of a revival campaign at Cherry Tree, near Oil City during the month of July.

The annual Children's Day exercises will be held in the Torpedo church next Sunday evening at eight o'clock, and the children of the Sunday school are preparing a fine program.

Rev. Harold Cartwright, Union Sunday School missionary of this district, is scheduled for preaching services in the Torpedo church every Sunday evening.

The church is being given a new coat of paint on the outside by men folks of the community.

Norman Miller, assisted by Charles Myers, Tidoute, are on the hill with the former's water well rig, drilling a well on the farm of Willis Wentworth. Mr. Miller has just finished several water wells for farmers on Sullivan Hill.

A tureen dinner was served on the lawn at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Howard Cartwright Friday evening with the proceeds for the benefit of the Torpedo community church. Around 50 people were served.

Richard Eastman, while visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Palmer, and playing with cousin, Gail Stuart, of Youngsville, fell from a tree injuring his leg which required medical treatment from a physician.

Friends and relatives of Leonard Eastman, were in Youngsville attending a birthday party in his honor Sunday evening.

Joseph Enick, York Hill, reports getting a 21-inch brown trout weighing 3 1/2 pounds out of the Brokenstraw creek last Saturday.

Several local fishermen have been going to Erie and fishing in the lake the past few days.

Glenn Eastman, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Charley Benedict, were in Jamestown, N. Y., to visit the former's mother, who is seriously ill.

Lucius Flasher, Swede Hollow, was visiting friends on the Hill Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Covell and family, who have been living at Sanford, moved into their home on Ross Hill Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Benedict, who have been renting their home, have moved to a farm near Clymer, N. Y.

Philip Bumgardner, Youngsville, has purchased the home formerly known as the Croup place at Torpedo, from Harold McConnell and has moved in. Mr. Bumgardner is employed at the Youngsville bakery.

Bus Trip to Erie Enjoyed By Pupils Of Corydon School

Corydon, June 12—Twenty-two local school students, accompanied by Marshall Gardner, enjoyed a bus trip and outing at Waldameer Park in Erie to mark the closing of the school term.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Laubach and son have left for a three-weeks stay in Columbus, Ga., where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Williams. They will also visit in Ideal, Ga.

Dr. Ivan Day, Detroit, Mich., was accompanied by friends for a visit with his mother, Mrs. Ruby Day.

Danny VanSickle is home from State College to spend the summer vacation.

Members of the Corydon Afternoon Club, accompanied by their husbands, attended a turkey supper held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde LaDow.

Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Snyder and family have returned from a visit in Brookville.

Margaret Crooks, State College student, has arrived home for the summer recess.

The weekly missionary meeting of the Church of the Nazarene was held with Mrs. Githa Crooks. A tureen dinner was served, with sewing occupying the time.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schuler, of Florida, have arrived here to spend some time with Corydon relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rodgers and son visited her mother in Jamestown, N. Y.

Mrs. A. C. Marcinek and twin boys, North Fairfield, O., will vacation here for a time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Frue.

Mr. and Mrs. David Doub, returned home recently after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Layton.

Teresa Marsh, principal of Kane Central school, is home for the summer recess.

Local Students in the News

Dean Blair, who has finished his freshman year at John B. Stetson University in Deland, Fla., and is home to spend the summer with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Blair, 311 Water street, has been advised that he earned a place on the Honor Roll for the period just ended. Graduate of Warren High School and of Warren Conservatory of Music in 1950, he is majoring in music at Stetson.

Martha Winans Colford, wife of James Colford, Grand Rapids, Mich., and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Winans, 104 Buchanan street, was a member of the class receiving degrees in Monday commencement exercises at Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, O. She earned her bachelor of arts with a psychology major, completing her senior work at mid-term, and is presently residing at 60 John Ball Park Drive, Grand Rapids. Her brother, David Winans, has finished his sophomore year at Allegheny College and is home for the summer.

Word has been received by Principal Floyd Bathurst at the high school that five local students appear on the Dean's List just announced at Edinboro State Teachers College. They are Dominic A. DeMarco, Charles William Morrison, Bruce Norris Black, Frank Edward Peterson and John Blair Logan.

Two Sheffield men receiving degrees in business administration at the St. Bonaventure University commencement exercises were John Simko, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Simko, and Peter Otto, son of Andrew Otto. Both are members of Beta Beta Chi, honorary business fraternity, and the former was a member of the 105 Club of the ROC Artillery Unit. Graduates of Sheffield-High and veterans of Army service, both majored in accounting, with a minor in business administration. Recalled to active duty, they will report Friday of this week to Fort Meade, Md., as second lieutenants in the Reserve Corps.

Robert O. Wilder, Irvine, was one of 117 Pennsylvania students among more than 2,000 candidates for degrees at Yale University's 250th Commencement exercises Monday morning. He received his bachelor of science in industrial administration.

Dora Lee Messner, daughter of Mrs. Robert Kinkadee, 805 Conewango avenue, was graduated Monday from Wilson College at Chambersburg with high academic honors. She received the bachelor of arts degree cum laude in recognition of high scholastic standing maintained throughout her four years of college. Her field of academic concentration was German with history as an allied subject. She prepared for college in Warren High School.

Three Warren students were among 187 seniors receiving degrees at the 132nd commencement exercises of Allegheny College, June 11. They are: Charles Cochener, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cochener, 415 West Fifth avenue; Gail T. Barker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl R. Barker, 19 Elm street; John E. Karl, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Karl, Clarendon Heights. In the same order, they majored in political science, in biology and in pre-med.

George R. Lucia, 908 Fourth avenue, received a bachelor of science in education with a major in physical education at the 28th annual Youngstown College commencement held in Stambaugh auditorium June 8.

Among more than 2,000 students awarded degrees at the spring commencement exercises of Purdue University Sunday was Frank N. Scatena, 119 North South street, who earned a bachelor of science.

William M. Hill, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hill, 414 Conewango avenue, received the degree of bachelor of arts from Dickinson College in the school's 178th commencement exercises. A member of Alpha Chi Rho fraternity, Hill served on the staff of the campus weekly newspaper for four years; was an editor of The Hornbook, literary annual; and was a member of Belles Lettres, 169-year old literary society. He also played the lead in the 1950 Dickinson musical show.

Officials From Spartansburg At Jointure Meeting

Corry Journal: The proposed school jointure program involving Corry, Spring Creek, Columbus, Elgin and Wayne and Concord townships with a possibility of a joint Junior-Senior High School being constructed in Corry was further muddled with the disclosure that Concord and Spring Creek officials Friday night attended a jointure meeting in Spartansburg.

Richard L. Witmer, president of the Spartansburg Consolidated School Board, presided over the session which was attended by 27 school officials from three counties.

The session was the first of a series scheduled to discuss the possibilities of the creating of a joint school district with portions of Eldred, Concord, Rome and Spring Creek townships to be included.

Mr. Witmer explained to the group that the facilities of the present Spartansburg Consolidated School are not sufficient to handle the school's enrollment of 400 students. Of this number about 100 are tuition students from the four townships.

The information brought out at the meeting will be discussed by the separate boards at future sessions when a decision will be made as to whether they will join with Spartansburg.

In attendance at the meeting were four members of the Spring Creek board, five from Eldred, one from Concord, five from Rome, eight from Spartansburg, the county superintendents of schools from Erie, Warren and Crawford counties, and the assistant superintendent from Crawford.

Much Interest Is Shown In Sunday School in Pleasant

In spite of inclement weather Pleasant Union Sunday School reopened Sunday at Pleasant Grange Hall with an attendance of fourteen boys and girls and seven adults under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fredericks. Classes were formed, teachers named, a Bible lesson read and discussed, and favorite hymns called for and rendered.

It is hoped that better weather will increase the attendance next Sunday when the school will be in full swing with new quarters and supplies.

A large vote of thanks is due Mr. and Mrs. Fredericks, a young Warren couple recruited to lead this missionary effort of providing a non-denominational church school for Pleasant township.

The late George Bernard Shaw claimed he was descended from Macduff, Thane of Fife, and from Oliver Cromwell.

Employment Service Report For May Reflects Little Change in the Area

Very little change in employment during May was reflected by data supplied to the Pennsylvania State Employment Service by 49 major Warren county firms according to David W. Levine, manager. Construction and the miscellaneous categories indicated slight declines while minor gains were reported for manufacturers and retail and wholesale trades groups.

Levine stated the claims for Unemployment Compensation continued to decline with only 60 persons filing for benefits during the last week in May. The corresponding figure for April was 72. Comparable tabulations for one and two years ago were 282 and 662, respectively.

Unemployment in Warren county is estimated by Levine at 400, or less than 3% of the civilian labor force. People, normally between jobs, represent a sizable portion of the jobless. Work applications at the P. S. E. S. office total only 141 of which nearly 40% are women. Nearly one-half of those registered are unsuitable for existing job opening because of age or lack of minimum specific experience or training.

With the end of the school term 250 potential workers will enter the labor force. They will face the best job prospects in recent years.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert D. Harris, 31 Buchanan street, left this morning by motor for Azusa, Calif., where they will spend most of the summer with their daughter, Mrs. Bruce Van Vranken, and family. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Owens, 113 West street, who will visit in Alhambra, and Mrs. Milton Perry, 15 Crescent street, who will be the guest of her daughter, Mrs. David Coll, in Whittier, Calif.

O. P. S. OFFICE HOURS
Until further notice, the Erie District Office of Price Stabilization will be closed to the public on Saturdays, beginning June 16th, in accordance with instructions received from National Director, Michael V. DiSalle. Erie District Director of the OPS, William J. Collins, said that the organizational phase of the operations of the office has reached the point where the volume of Saturday business does not justify the added expense of keeping the office open on that day.

FEWER ON RELIEF
There were fewer persons receiving assistance in Pennsylvania at the end of May than at any spring date since 1946. The decline in the number of assistance recipients has been continuous during the first five months of 1951, averaging 7,500 per month and reaching a maximum of 12,365 during May. It is interesting to note that there has been a decrease of more than 5,000 in the number of recipients of old age assistance since the beginning of the year. This is good evidence that old age assistance is not regarded as a pension program in Pennsylvania, but is regarded as a program to protect the aged who have no other resources. As economic conditions improve, children are better able to support their aged parents and there are more employment opportunities for the able-bodied aged.

BOY CHOIR OFFICERS Jack, Donaldson, Vice President and charter member; Roger Rue, President; Richard Swanson, Treasurer; and Richard Valone, Secretary, head up the 1951 all-boy choir directed by Byron Swanson. The boys will present their fourth annual Variety Concert at the High School Auditorium on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, and on June 23 are scheduled to appear on the Paul Whiteman "Teentime" TV show in Philadelphia. Membership totals 37 local boys this year, singing remarkably difficult 4-part music in a wide range of sacred, classical and popular selections, staged with specially designed scenery and costumes which guarantee memorable entertainment for the capacity audiences which invariably turn out for this once-a-year event.

PENNSYLVANIA FARM ROUND-UP

By BILL LOFTUS

Harrisburg—(P) — It's straw-berry and whipped cream time again—and there's a plentiful supply of both.

There are home grown strawberries available for shortcake and pie fans, for canning and for ice cream topping this last year, according to state agriculture department officials.

This is the second week of the harvest season and already big supplies of the fruit have reached retail markets from the southeastern areas of the state. In that area the berries have grown fast and prospects are for an excellent crop, the department believes.

In the northern and western counties the berries look good but are about a week to 10 days late in harvesting.

At the same time the department said surpluses in the dairy industry insure an ample supply of cream for the topping of strawberries and shortcake.

In addition to heavier supplies of milk, stocks of creamery butter in Pennsylvania cold storage houses advanced 244,000 pounds to a total of 1,830,000 last month. American cheese holdings at 2,145,000 pounds were greater than the previous month's totals and shell eggs advanced to 35,000 cases of 30 dozens each.

While increases were taking place, there were also decreases in the field of dressed poultry supplies and apple storage.

At the end of last month there were only 171,000 bushels of apples on hand compared to 334,000 bushels in March and April.

Heavy buyer demand by housewives shrunk the dressed poultry stock to 7,855,000 pounds, a decrease of 1,657,000 pounds.

KOREAN PEACE MOVE

In the opinion of J. M. Roberts, Jr., Associated Press news analyst, talk at the United Nations and elsewhere of a Korean peace move seems to be based more on an impending policy statement by the Allies than on anything the Chinese Communists do.

For its part, Peiping is going ahead with the war with no more word than that it still intends to throw the United Nations forces out of Korea.

Allied troops are running into stronger static defenses than at any other time in the war. The Chinese and North Koreans have dug in. Prepared emplacements have been found. The Reds are reported to be using artillery more prodigally than at any time since the North Koreans were seeking to crack the Pusan beachhead.

Peiping has just announced an all-out campaign to raise funds for the war.

For weeks now Americans have been grasping at every official visit to the Far East, every huddle of Allied diplomats, as omens of the peace which they were told might be possible when the Chinese spring offensive had been crushed.

General Marshall's visit to Korea and Japan was the latest among these speculation-arousers, but the general soon made it clear that his mission was strictly military.

It is quite possible, however, that Marshall, Air Secretary Finletter who also is on a trip to the east, and Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff who went to Europe, will all have views on the general military situation upon which the diplomats will rely in making any statement of political policy. These trips probably would have been made earlier but for the business of these men with the MacArthur investigation in Washington.

Everybody seems agreed that the Chinese Communists have gotten themselves into a position where they should want peace. But they still have some 300,000 reserves ready for the Korean battle, and General Van Fleet makes his estimate of the situation plain by continuing to develop new Allied defense lines close behind his advancing troops.

Russia showed some interest in Senator Johnson's recent proposal for a cease-fire on June 25, first anniversary of North Korean aggression. Pravda gave the story a good play, but merely remarked that it showed some circles in the U. S. were getting tired of the war, and then let the matter drop.

More suggestive of the Russian attitude is her latest proposal for a peace conference on Japan, where there is no war, and no such suggestion regarding Korea, where men are dying and, more importantly from Russia's standpoint, the western Allies are spending military strength they would rather be deploying elsewhere.

TWENTY ADDED YEARS OF LIFE

Since the turn of the century, almost twenty years have been added to the life span of the American people, according to a statement by Dr. John W. Cline, as made in an address delivered on the occasion of his inauguration as president of the American Medical Association meeting in Atlantic City. The general death rate during the same period has been cut almost in half. This represents the saving of more than one million American lives every year.

Other interesting vital statistics as revealed by Dr. Cline are:

Our population has doubled since 1900, but the population, sixty-five years of age and older—has quadrupled. This results from saving the lives of infants, children and young adults.

An American mother now has better than 999 chances out of 1000 to come through childbirth safely. This is the best record in our history and, on a comparable basis, the best in the world.

In the ten years between 1940 and 1950, infant mortality was cut 38 per cent. At the present rate of progress the record of the United States should be shortly, if not already, the best in the world.

A baby born today has more than 20 per cent greater chance of reaching maturity and almost 45 per cent greater chance of achieving the age of fifty than had a baby born in 1900. At the same time, he faces only about half the hazard of becoming an orphan before reaching maturity.

Here And There

For the third year, Twin Lakes, one of the delightful camp grounds units in the Allegheny National Forest, is being operated by a concessionaire under special permit, and Loleta will be run in the same manner this season for the first time, according to a release from the Warren office of the U. S. Forest Service.

The statement given out by Dick Costley, forest supervisor, says the operators are allowed to make a nominal charge for the use of the facilities and are authorized to run a small commissary. In return, the permittee maintains the developments, polices the grounds, furnishes life guard service and other facilities necessary in rounding out a complete use and enjoyment of the areas and their improvements.

Of special interest to the Twin Lakes users is the fact that the slightly more than three miles of approach road from Highway No. 219 has recently been newly paved.

In answering the query as to why the small charge was not made at all camp grounds, it has been pointed out that the Forest Service has always tried to operate all of its recreational developments on a free public use basis. In recent years, however, the extent of this use and cost of making it possible has risen rapidly. For many years the public has paid to enter comparable areas in State and National Parks and recently when requests have been made for appropriations to operate the recreational areas on the National Forests the question has been raised by Congressional appropriation committees as to why such services did not bring any financial return to the government. Following the inquiry on the part of Congress it was decided that an experimental charge for the use of improved facilities would be tried at a few representative areas where the volume of business was such that the operation might be self-supporting. Less than 2% of all National Forest recreational areas have been so handled and to date Twin Lakes is the only one on the Allegheny National Forest that was selected to be one of them. This year however, in order to improve the service to the public it was decided to put Loleta under the same type of management that had proven so successful at Twin Lakes. The fees charged are a minimum, it being planned that the receipts will only be enough to cover the cost of supervision, sanitation and maintenance. The operators are both educators, one being a high school principal and the other one is on the faculty of the University of Pittsburgh.

In addition to the developed camp grounds, there are many cool and restful spots on the forest that are used by the public. In these places special permits are required before camp fires may be built. These permits are issued without charge by the Forest Rangers at Sheffield and Marienville.

This N That: According to present indications, Warren will be well represented at the annual June reunion of Coudersport Consistory with a half dozen from this area in the class of candidates. . . . Blat Brothers have purchased a 16-acre tract at Range's Corners, five miles west of Corry, on Route 6, on which they plan to build a modern 500-car drive-in establishment. . . . The Columbus Inn at Columbus, this county, was sold Monday to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Krivonak of Erie. . . . That stretch of highway between Kane and Lantz Corners is scheduled to come in for a major improvement program this summer. . . . Plans are being made to broadcast the speech of Congressman Carroll D. Kearns, which will be made during the annual community Flag Day exercises at the Elks Club Thursday evening. . . . The building to house rest rooms at War Memorial Field is going up rapidly and should be ready for use before the opening festivities of the Fourth of July celebration. . . . An unusually large number of new homes are going up this summer in sections adjacent to the borough, including North Warren, Jackson Run, Pleasant township, Clarendon to Sheffield, and west through Starbuck. . . . Weather permitting, the picnic season will get under way full tilt this week.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

MacArthur Hearings Help to Confuse Far Eastern Issues

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Two main angles to the Senate investigation of General MacArthur's firing are constantly getting confused. First is the future conduct of the war in Korea. Second is the record of what happened in China during and after World War II.

The 25 good senators and true on Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees leap nimbly from one crag to another in their questioning of witnesses. This makes the record extremely hard to follow.

There is, of course, a relationship between the China and Korea questions. Somebody failed to save China from going Communist. Because of that failure, the United Nations are now in trouble in Korea.

The State Department puts primary responsibility on Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and the bad leadership in his Nationalist government. The Republicans say it's all the fault of the U. S. State Department.

It is the marathon investigation into General MacArthur's dismissal that develops a clear and agreed-upon version of just what happened in China, it might serve a useful purpose. It would settle the record that schoolboys and girls—and even the history teachers—will use in textbooks. And it might point the way for avoiding similar mistakes when they start happening in the future—in Iran, or India or the Philippines or any other likely trouble spots.

THIS was apparently what Secretary of State Dean Acheson tried to do in his testimony spelling out the China record as he saw it. This is admittedly his own prejudiced account. But it should provide a basis for settling the argument. Here are the highlights, in highly condensed form.

At the end of the war, the U. S. had three choices. One was to pull out of China and wash our hands of it. Another was to throw all U. S. resources into China to defeat the Communists.

The third, and the one chosen, was to give important assistance to Nationalist China, helping it re-establish authority in areas where it had never exercised control.

In February, 1945, at Yalta, Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin made the agreement to give Russia all of Sakhalin Island, the Kuriles, port rights at Dairen and Port Arthur and interest in Manchurian railways. Russia demanded these things as the price for entering the war against Japan.

NATIONALIST China later approved the Yalta terms because it was felt Russia might have demanded more. Furthermore, in August, 1945, Russia and Nationalist China concluded a treaty by which Manchuria was to be given to China.

Then came the agreements, freely requested and entered into between Chinese Nationalists and Chinese Communists, for a unified government. U. S. Ambassador Pat Hurley began the negotiations. General Marshall concluded them.

The Nationalists were to have 50 of 60 divisions in the Army, 20 of 40 seats in the national governing council.

Neither side kept the agreement. In jockeying for position which would give the greater control, the Nationalist forces were spread too thin over supply lines that were too long. And the Communists began to pick them off.

By the end of 1948, the Nationalist armies were reduced to 2,600,000 and the Communists increased to 1,100,000. The Nationalists still had three or four to one fire power superiority.

By February, 1949, the Nationalists had 1,500,000 troops, the Communists 1,600,000. Eighty per cent of the U. S. military aid had been lost and 75 per cent of it had been captured by the Communies. By the end of the year it was all over.

Now who is to blame for that debacle, and what should have been done differently?

MR. AND MRS. LEONARD L. COLOSANTI

Valeria Elaine Freeman, daughter of Mrs. Fred E. Freeman, Pittsfield, and the late Mr. Freeman, became the bride of Leonard Lewis Colosanti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Colosanti, 7 Bowen street, Jamestown, N. Y., at 10 a. m. Saturday, May 26, in the rectory of St. John's church, Jamestown, the Rev. Austin Bluer officiating.

Given in marriage by her brother, Russell Freeman, the bride was wearing a white tulle gown with round neckline and beaded trim in a nylon yoke, long sleeves, and full train. Her fingertip veil of nylon and lace was attached with orange blossoms to a lace coronet and her arm bouquet was fashioned of white calla lilies.

Lucy Colosanti, sister of the bridegroom and maid of honor, wore yellow lace with a net skirt, matching mitts and Dutch-style hat, and carried Talisman roses and white sweet peas.

Theodore Langworthy was best man for his brother-in-law.

The bride's mother wore yellow roses with a brown silk print and her grandmother, Mrs. Heineman, wore Talisman roses with black Chantilly lace over black satin. Mrs. Colosanti wore navy blue crepe and lace, with a red rose corsage.

The wedding breakfast was served in the home of the bridegroom's parents, when it was learned the oldest and youngest guests have a birthday on the same day, Mrs. Amelia Heinman, grandmother of the bride, will be 86 on July 30 and Nicholas Langworthy, nephew of the bridegroom, will be two years old.

Dinner was served in the afternoon at the Norris Supper Club, Jamestown.

Following a Canadian honeymoon, the couple are residing in a newly-purchased home at 1012 North Main, Jamestown.

The bride was graduated from Youngsville High School and Edinboro State Teachers College and is employed as a cashier at Loblaw's.

Honoring her with pre-nuptials were Jean Robertson, 210 Wood street, and Loblaw employees.

The bridegroom attended Jamestown schools, served three and one-half years in the Army, and is employed by Blackstone Corporation.

Eastern Wedding Of Interest Locally

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Shaner, 261 Chestnut street, Pottstown, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Mary Jane, to Leslie Lawrence Feidler, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Feidler, 5 Alexander street, Warren.

The ceremony was performed at 2 p. m. Saturday, June 2, in Transfiguration Lutheran church, Pottstown, by the Rev. Theodore L. Fischer.

Escorted down the aisle by her father, the bride wore a Swiss embroidered organza gown with bouffant skirt and brief jacket of organza appliqued with blossoms. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was attached to a lace cap trimmed with seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis.

Attending her as matron of honor, Mrs. Robert Huber wore white Swiss embroidered organza over yellow taffeta and carried yellow carnations, gardenias and lavender larkspur. The bridesmaids, Dorothy McCormick and Mrs. Samuel Krouse, wore white organza over blue and carried bouquets of pink carnations, gardenias and pink larkspur.

Ed Feidler served as best man for his brother and ushers were Luther Shaner, Jr., brother of the bride, and John D. Glover.

A reception was held in the Boyertown Inn for guests from Bridgeton, Lebanon, Warren, Erie, Winchester, Reading, Schenectady, N. Y., and Philadelphia.

CENTRAL WCTU
Central WCTU members will hold their regular meeting at 2:30 p. m. Thursday in First Methodist church, with Mrs. Roger Morey as the leader and Mrs. Joseph Larson as hostess. Assisting on the committee will be Mrs. F. H. He-trick, Mrs. Lyle Shearer, and Mrs. Alberta Trauffer.

Klang-Lawson Rite Is Solemnized At Lander Methodist

Lander, June 12—Spring flowers were used in attractive decoration of the Methodist church at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, when the Rev. Gustav Erickson united in marriage a Jamestown couple, Beverly Lawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Lawson, 945 East Second street, and Richard Klang, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Klang, 618 Newland avenue.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore navy accessories and a corsage of red roses with a white garbancine suit.

Her sister and matron of honor, Mrs. Guy E. Rowland, Jr., of Lander, wore a rose garbancine suit, white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

LeRoy Johnson, Jamestown, a brother-in-law of the bride, was best man for Mr. Klang.

Guests from Lander and Jamestown were invited to the reception held at four o'clock at the Henderson Tea Room, Jamestown. Spring flowers and a two-tiered cake topped with miniature bride figures centered the bride's table.

After a wedding trip to Buffalo, the couple will live at 100 Stowe street, Jamestown.

The bride, graduate of Jamestown High School in the Class of 1947, is employed as a bookkeeper for the Royal Electric and Appliance Store in Falconer and her husband, who attended the same high school, is employed as a die and tool maker for Meica Precision at Lakewood.

Those who entertained for the bride-elect were Mary Anderson, Mrs. LeRoy Johnson, Mrs. Carl Klang, Mrs. Truman Lawson, Mrs. Guy E. Rowland, Jr., Mrs. Paul Brookmire, Elsie Anderson.

Mrs. Minnie Headley Is Anniversary Guest

Mrs. Florence Burghardt and her daughter, Mrs. Howard Lincoln, North Warren, entertained about 50 guests at the Burghardt home Sunday to honor the 80th birthday anniversary of their mother and grandmother, Mrs. Minnie Headley.

Guests were relatives, friends and neighbors from Westfield, Salamanca, Jamestown, Frewsburg, N. Y., and North Warren. Presiding at an attractively appointed tea table were Mrs. Lincoln, Mrs. Lydia Burghardt, Mrs. Nell Mills.

Mrs. Headley was showered with lovely remembrances of the occasion and received a great many greeting cards and best wishes.

★ RUTH MILLETT ★ Here Are Some Situations Women Naturally Understand

ONLY another woman can understand:

That it is equally upsetting for a woman to have a drop-in guest find her house in disorder or an expected guest fail to show up after she has the whole house shining.

How frustrating it is to a woman to houseclean all day and have her husband walk in, look around and ask innocently: "What have you been doing all day?"

How a woman can get so much enjoyment out of "just looking" at things she has no intention of buying.

Why it is easier for a woman to face almost any kind of crisis if she has just had her hair done.

Why a woman always wonders, when she meets a man, if he is married and if he is, what his wife is like.

That the duller the evening, the more the women guests gush over what a wonderful time they had.

Why a woman looks so pleased when her husband mentions some flaw in another woman, even one as remote as a movie star.

AGE IS ALWAYS A BURNING QUESTION

WHY a woman is so interested in other women's ages.

Why the tone of feminine talk always changes abruptly and if by mutual consent the moment a man joins the group.

Why no woman can ever figure out to her entire satisfaction how a homely woman holds a man.

How a couple of wives can have such an enjoyable time tearing their husbands to pieces.

That when a married couple are being excessively polite to each other, chances are they have had a quarrel that hasn't been fought out to the finish.

That when a woman asks "What do you think of so-and-so?" she doesn't want or expect approval. She is giving a go-ahead sign—go ahead and tell me what you think is wrong with her and then I'll tell you.

Students' - Children's Day at Youngsville

Youngsville, June 12—Students' and Children's Day were combined Sunday morning in a program given at 11 a. m. in the Methodist church, with the ladies of Mr. Carr's class taking up the offering for the Methodist Student Loan Fund.

A baptismal service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. W. Chitester, and Mrs. Knapp's class conducted the devotional period.

After a Welcome Song sung by Nancy Pierce and Becky Davis, the nursery group in charge of Mary Caldwell gave two songs; Connie Knapp gave the Welcome, and short recitations were given by Jeannie Chitester, Joyce Thompson, Phil Barton, Linda Borton, Craig Woods, Sharon Walter, Linda McMillen, Donnie Archbold and Carleen Henton; recitations, "We Welcome You" and "A Big Wish", were given by Billie Pat-chen and Carol Pierce, respectively.

A song was sung by Mrs. Jones' group, followed by recitations given by Anita Fitzgerald, Brent Borton, Jane Sweetland, Ralph Knapp, Sherrie Christie, Jane Mourer, Jeannie Maasz; an accordion solo, Sandra Johnson; exercise by girls of Louise Gibson's class; piano solo, Donald Walter, just home from college; recitations, Gary Borton, Kenny Knapp, Denny Knapp, Dick Hedman; recitation, "A Recipe for Children's Day", May Ellen Mills, Shirley Fitzgerald, Nancy Miller.

The primary department pleased with a song recitation, "Why We Celebrate", Paul Mourer; exercise, "A Child's Prayer".

Following the closing song, the benediction was pronounced by the pastor.

Piano Pupils of Russell Studios Please In Recital

The parlors of the Woman's Club were the scene of a very happy gathering Friday evening, when parents and friends of the Russell Piano Studios assembled to hear the annual spring recital.

Just before the program, the pupils presented Mrs. Allie Russell and Miss Evelyn Samuelson, teachers, with a beautiful corsage and an original poem as a token of appreciation for the season's work.

Each pupil displayed poise and a fine understanding of the number being played. One little girl told an original story of the composer of her number and expressed in an interesting manner her idea of the writer's mood in different portions of the piece.

A Norwegian folk dance was done by eight little girls in costumes, Jane and Sue Ensworth, Mary Kay, Diane Stille, Carol Blackman, Nancy Goodwill, Barbara Yeagle and Nancy Carlson. The number was very well performed and greatly enjoyed by the audience.

Two piano numbers were interspersed among the solos and a poem or two recited by the pupil before the number was played added variety to the program.

Tim Dremann, Linda Miller, Karen Curtis, Jimmy Miller, Suzanne Myers, David Swanson, Andy Larson, Jimmie Schorman, Nancy Reynolds, Judi Callenburg, Karen Hegstrom, Toni Callenburg, Mary Miller, Jane McDonald, Gladys Judd.

GOLDEN WEDDING DAY—Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Mitchell, 522 Conewango avenue, received about 70 relatives and friends in their home Sunday afternoon, June 3, in celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary. Married June 5, 1901, in Clarion county by the Rev. Mead, Methodist minister, the Mitchells have resided in Warren for the past 30 years. Mr. Mitchell was at one time employed by the Warren Street Railway Company. They have five children, also several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

The anniversary table was beautifully decorated in yellow and white, with a wedding cake baked by their son, John. Mrs. Jean Mazzone and Miss Charlotte Mazzone presided at the table, with Mrs. John Mitchell cutting the cake. Miss Mary Jane Schuelz was in charge of the guest book and other aides were Mrs. Sherman Van Pelt, Mrs. Eugene Fox and Miss Rachel Samuelson.

MENU SUGGESTIONS

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

WHY not let Dad strut his stuff on Father's Day? Secretly, he probably thinks of himself as a suppressed kitchen genius, far better than all the womenfolk in the family put together. So give him a break. Turn the kitchen over to him for Father's Day and let him turn out a masterpiece—cream pie a la Pop.

Boston Cream Pie a la Pop

One cup sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, unbeaten, ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons shortening, ½ cup milk, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind, vanilla cream filling, chocolate glaze.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Beat eggs with rotary beater until foamy; add sugar gradually, beating constantly until very thick and light. Add shortening to milk and heat, then add to egg mixture, mixing quickly. Add lemon rind and flour all at once and beat with rotary egg beater only until smooth.

Turn batter into 9-inch layer pan, 1½ inches deep, which has been lined on bottom with paper, but not greased. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 15 minutes, or until done. Remove from oven, invert pan on rack, and let stand one hour, or until cake is cool. Remove from pan.

Split cake in half. Spread vanilla cream filling between halves and pour chocolate glaze over top of cake.

Vanilla Cream Filling: Combine one package prepared vanilla pudding with 1½ cups milk in saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil and is thickened. Cool, stirring occasionally.

Chocolate Glaze: Heat 2 tablespoons butter and 2 squares unsweetened chocolate on top of double boiler until melted. Combine 3 tablespoons hot milk, 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar, and dash of salt; add chocolate mixture gradually, stirring to blend.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, ready-to-eat cereal, poached eggs on toast, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Cream of fresh spinach soup, crackers, toasted bacon sandwiches, berries, light cream, tea, milk.

FATHER'S DAY DINNER: Fresh fruit cup, broiled steak, French fried onions, baked potatoes, or French fried potatoes, thickly sliced beefsteak tomatoes, garlic French bread, Boston cream pie a la Pop, coffee, milk.

New Pesticide Mixtures

A Good Dusting at First Sign of Trouble Prevents Damage.

In spite of the greatly improved pesticides now available to home gardeners, there is no indication that the insect population is decreasing. This may be due to the fact that too few gardeners avail themselves of the improved materials.

No new miracle insecticides are being introduced this year, but there are many all-purpose combinations now available, which relieve the gardener of the need to diagnose the trouble when his plants are first attacked.

These combinations include materials deadly to leaf eating and juice drinking insects, plus fungicides which will handle most plant diseases, so that one dusting or spraying applied without delay will usually end an attack.

Too many amateurs wait until their plants are half destroyed, and then ask: "How can I protect them?"

"Too late," must be the answer. Nothing can help your plants after the injury has been done. A duster should be kept filled with dust, and carried to the garden on frequent visits. At the first sign of insect invasion the plants under attack can be covered with a protective coat of dust.

This should be applied in a cloud which completely envelops the plant. A good duster makes it possible to blow the dust from below the plants, so it coats the under side of the leaves as it rises, and then falls on the upper parts. Leave a coat of dust as heavy as a moderate application of face powder.

Insects which gardeners can always expect in their vegetable gardens include leaf hoppers on beans, striped beetles on cucumbers, melons and squash, aphids and cabbage worm on cabbage, cauliflower and broccoli, flea beetles eating tiny holes in the leaves of egg plant.

Rotenone alone should be used to protect the cucumbers, melons and squash. Striped beetles lay eggs in the growing ends of these plants as soon as they begin to grow, and their offspring will devour the plant, unless this blossom end is kept covered with lethal dust until the vines are several feet long. A dust composed of one pound of calcium arsenate with 10 pounds of gypsum is preferred by many gardeners to rotenone.

When D.D.T. is used, one dusting a week should be sufficient to keep plants protected. This material remains on the plant leaves, and kills insects which walk across it; but rain and sunshine will shorten its toxic power. It should not be applied to the edible parts of plants within ten days before the harvest; and it should be an invariable rule that all vegetables taken from the garden should be thoroughly washed before being used.

ACNE

Unfortunately this malady seems to occur just when appearance counts most—when a boy discovers girls, or a girl discovers boys—or when a young person is looking for the first job or trying to achieve social success. Probably you have had acne at some time or other. Almost everybody has. Skin authorities estimate that between 60 and 90% of all people have been troubled by the red, yellow or purple bumps which appear on the face, chest and back.

Your doctor can help you greatly. Follow his instructions. Don't dope your skin with patent medicines, purges, and the like. Many who are in the habit of taking bromide for headaches, hangovers or sleeplessness, develop acne lesions, which never disappear unless they stop taking that particular drug. Let your doctor decide! Then let us carefully compound his prescriptions designated especially for you. It is a long accepted fact that Mullen's Drug Store gives assurance of the finest in drugs. Mullen Drug Store is synonymous with quality.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

CAN YOU SPOT DECLARER'S ERROR

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

"Hard luck," said South. Everybody nodded sympathetically, so I kept quiet. I've discovered that nobody thanks me for pointing out his errors.

West opened the ten of clubs, and South won with the ace. He drew two rounds of trumps and then overtook the queen of clubs with the dummy's king in order to discard a diamond on the jack of clubs.

Declarer then entered his hand with the ace of diamonds to lead a heart towards dummy. When West played low, declarer hopefully finessed dummy's ten.

East quickly took the jack of hearts, cashed the king of hearts, and then began on the diamonds. South could ruff the third round of diamonds but still had to lose a third heart trick. Hence he sighed about his luck as he entered 100 points on the enemy's side of the score pad.

Have you spotted South's error? You should be able to prove that hard luck was not responsible for South's defeat.

Declarer was on the right track in winning the first trick, drawing trumps, and running the clubs to discard a diamond. He was still all right when he led to the ace of diamonds. But he plunged off the deep end when he then led a heart.

Correct play is to lead a second diamond at once. There is time later on to lead the hearts. If diamonds are led again, East must win and continue the suit. South ruffs the third diamond and then is the time for the heart lead. Declarer neither gains nor loses if the finesse of the heart ten succeeds. If that finesse loses to the jack, however, South has an extra chance that East may have ace-jack or king-jack alone.

Annual Banquet of Lander Alumni Is Largely Attended

Lander, June 12 — The 23rd annual banquet of the Lander High School Alumni Association, held in the community house, had an attendance of more than 150 persons. The turkey dinner was served by the WSCA.

The Rev. Gustav Erickson gave the invocation and Fred White was toastmaster for an entertaining program.

Mr. White saluted the family of the late Frank Wilcox, eight children and all alumni, present with their wives and husbands, together with their mother, Mrs. Evelyn Wilcox: Warren, George and Edward, of Akeley RD; Mrs. Roscoe Knapp, Russell RD; Rose Mary Wilcox, Jamestown, Perry, of Sugar Grove; Arden, in the U. S. Navy at Washington, D. C., but leaving soon for North Africa; Mrs. Allan Woodruff, also of Washington.

Five members of the Dudgeon family also were present: Mrs. Wendell Burgett, Mrs. Gust Youngberg, Mrs. Kenneth Almgren, Mrs. Adam LaBarbera, and John Dudgeon.

Harry Engelson, singer and entertainer, gave a varied program and Melvin Young, also of Jamestown, pleased with vocal selections. Rev. Erickson gave a short talk.

President Dorothy Mahan conducted the business session, when the following were elected as officers for next year: President, Mrs. Harry Sarvis, Sugar Grove; vice president, Mrs. Harold Hale, Russell; secretary, Shirley Swanson, Lander; treasurer and toastmaster, George Wilcox.

Mrs. Harry Ludwick displayed the plaque which pays tribute to three boys who lost their lives in World War II, Richard Beck, Kenneth Day and Virgil Schultz. It was voted to have it placed in the school temporarily, until it has been decided where it will be kept permanently. Members also voted to give any surplus money from this fund to the town pump and honor roll fund.

Two deaths of alumni, Albert E. Firth and Rose Espersen Larson, were reported for the year.

FORMER RESIDENT ILL

Friends in Warren have received word that Mrs. Harry Wilson, a patient in Los Angeles Harbor General Hospital in Torrance City, Calif., for the last year, suffered a stroke last week and is in critical condition. A former resident of East street, Warren, Mrs. Wilson was active in affairs of the DAR and other organizations in town and has many friends in the community.

HORSE MISSING

State police have had reported to them a probable stolen horse, owned by Edgar Lawson, Jackson Run Road. Mr. Lawson told police he missed the horse about 5 p. m. yesterday when making a check for it. A bridle and saddle are also gone, lending credence to the fact that the horse was stolen. The horse and equipment are valued at $250. Two other valuable riding horses in the same field were not molested.

HAS NEW POSITION

C. C. Hogg of Pleasantville, oil geologist, is now employed as training director for the Sohio Petroleum company, 2316 First National Bank building, Oklahoma City, Okla. Sohio Petroleum is the producing arm of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio, the old John D. Rockefeller concern. As the result of a program of acquisition and development begun about 10 years ago, Ohio Standard is now a major company in production as well as refining and marketing. Mr. Hogg recently did consulting work around Titusville for the Brundred Oil Corporation and the Creek Oil Corporation. For five years prior to that he was at Marietta College, Ohio, establishing the Brown School of Petroleum.

Mr. and Mrs. Hogg plan to keep their property in Pleasantville.

Corpse on the Town

By JOHN ROEBURT

Chapter 6

RUMELY said, "What's Willie told you about his wife? The question was mildly put, with easy affability but beneath the casual manner, Jigger sensed an insistence an implacable wish to know.

Jigger replied tersely, with feigned indifference while his eyes watched Rumely's face for a clue that might explain the curious relationship between this worldly unmarried pair. "Told me she was beautiful. That she went away somewhere. That the brunette in the Morgue is the late Mrs. Susan Hunter. That the police were cynical, deaf to his claim."

Rumely said mockingly, "So the body inside was his wife." He turned to Willie, "Willie, when did our wife die?"

The need worked upward slowly. "Two years. Two years ago." Rumely looked significantly at Jigger, then twisted back to Willie. "Where did she die?"

The eyes grew vacant. "San Francisco." He repeated it slowly, as if memorizing it. "San Francisco. Susan died in San Francisco two years ago."

Rumely said, "Ready to drive back, Willie?" It was almost toneless, but the interrogation was an order.

Willie looked obediently at Rumely and turned to leave. They watched him descend the steps, and bump through the flowing crowd.

Rumely made a gesture. "See how it is gentlemen?"

Jigger queried, "Back to an asylum?"

"No. Just back. Asylum's where he ought to be, though. With the doors double-locked. He sighed heavily. "But it's just back for Willie. So he can vancoose any time his addled brain sees fit."

"Why isn't he locked up, if he's insane? And why does he keep running off?"

Rumely laughed mirthlessly. "Willie's nutty as a fruitcake, but harmless. He runs wild because Old Man Hunter—that's his father-in-law—says 'No' to putting him away. Doesn't want a close relation in the nuthouse, I guess."

Willie stopped for breath. "Willie keeps running off every time a newspaper prints a story about a corpse anywhere that happens to be unidentified, and happens to be a woman. On this one, he bolted for New York when a press radio flash came through last night.

"You don't mean he claims every unidentified corpse is a wife who died years ago?" Red asked incredulously.

"I mean just that."

Jigger asked, "How did Susan Hunter die?"

"Pneumonia."

"Buried there—or was the body shipped home?"

Susan Hunter was cremated in Fresno, ashes were shipped back. "He added, "In an urn that cost old Matthew Hunter five grand, at least."

Jigger said, "That probably explains Willie's passion for claiming jodies. A wife went away, and a jar of ashes came back. Willie just can't accept the swap."

He paused, and then inquired, "How come Willie's name is Hunter, like his father-in-law?"

"Same family. Old Man Hunter is also Willie's uncle. Willie and his wife were cousins." Rumely took off his wide-brimmed hat and nodded his brow. "Now, I'll ask you a favor. Nobody wants any publicity in this, so I'd appreciate it if you fellows kept it all under your hats. The Hunter family's somebody, and Willie is a big name in every body."

A smile floated over the waves of cheek. "Besides, if Willie ever let the newspapers as a freak item, Old Man Hunter'd call in my badge. Do I have your promise?"

Jigger nodded, his earlier dislike somewhat dispelled. Rumely voiced his thanks by handing a wet hand to Jigger and Red in turn. They watched him go off, moving like a vast Easter egg on a motorized float.

Red spoke first. "How'd Rumely strike you?"

Jigger hesitated. "Unpleasantly. Mainly. Crafts sums him up. The god-awful candor was a bribe."

Red frowned. "But does Willie connect with our case?"

"I doubt it."

"Because the police evidently didn't think so. Because Willie is what he is—all fantasy and no fact."

Red nodded, satisfied. "Good enough. And exit Willie from our scheme of things." He consulted his watch. "It's almost three. Call it a day."

"One more stop-over," Jigger said restily.

"C.L.S."

"With a prayer," Jigger said fervently. "If we draw a blank there, we've run out of leads."

PERSONAL ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Niver, of Conewango avenue, Mr. and Mrs. James Hoyt and Mrs. Otto Svendsen of Jamestown, spent the weekend in Bedford, Ohio, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Sam Niver, Jr. They also attended the Cleveland-Boston ball game in Cleveland Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Season have left for their home in Covina, Calif., after spending two weeks at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. N. D. Patterson and family, 422 Pennsylvania avenue, east.

He motioned to the Imperial. "Climb in."

Red opened the rear door. Jigger got into the driver's seat and turned her ignition on.

There was a uneasy rise in Red's voice. "Cab's taken, Jigger."

Jigger swung around and stared into the depths of the cab. Captain Prescott!

The mouth was a straight, determined line—at odds with the feathered speech. "I don't mind your associate riding along, Jigger."

Jigger set his teeth. "Where to, Prescott?"

"Headquarters."

A while later, Jigger observed coolly. "Return bout's kind of sudden. It was just last night—"

"There was a pause, and then the feathered speech, "Is there anything you'd like to tell now—to supplement your statement of last night?" The speech pointed slightly. "Something new, maybe?"

It creased Jigger, like a pointed blade. "No."

"No conclusions from your turn at Bellevue?"

Jigger swallowed. "The same conclusion you no doubt reached—the half-dead gent there was the beggar who hired me to haul him home."

Prescott turned to Red. "Pick anything up of interest in that hour-in-the-Morgue?"

Red stammered. "J-just the usual run of wacky stories."

Jigger said artfully, "A whole waste of manpower keeping tabs on the dead."

Prescott said severely. "You fellows deserve it. It's been an education watching the industry you show on a case."

Jigger pulled to the curb in front of Police Headquarters. Prescott got out, then poked a dollar out through the driver's window. Jigger pushed it back. "Nonsense," Prescott insisted. "It was my party."

Jigger made change. Prescott said, "One thing's had me wondering all day, Jigger. Who pays for all these cases? The driver?—Charlton Street, Christ?—Bellevue, the Morgue?" He went off.

Jigger laughed scratchily. "Quite a cop Prescott. Makes an art of nerve warfare. But don't let him fool you."

"Telling the truth," Red shivered. "To me the man means just one thing—sudden arrest."

professor added. "An uncommonly talented one."

Jigger smiled. "What I mean is, who are her people, what's her occupation?"

"I'm afraid I don't know. She was just a member of the class."

"How about her home address?"

She was living at the Laura Spellman House—but, no longer. I wrote her there recently. The letter came back stamped "No Forwarding Address."

"What did she look like?"

Scott looked into the empty classroom as if seeking to stimulate memory, and visualization of a forgotten face. He said vaguely, "It was her coiffure one saw. I recall it was very striking. Thick braids fashioned into a coronet."

Jigger said impatiently. "Blond, brunette, redhead, or what?"

Scott hesitated. "The braids were black, I'd say."

"Go on with your description."

"Except for her hair, I can recall nothing singular about her appearance. A worst smile played on his face. "Perhaps if I were younger, more able socially—I'd reached down and picked a type-written page off his desk. "The only identity my students have for me—is the identity of mind."

Jigger said, "But there had to be some personalization. That Public Notice item—"

SCOTT looked flustered, like a man city art in an exhibit of weakness. He said, "I suppose that does seem odd. I've wondered about the impulse that made me place it." He paused, as if examining himself. "I believe it was the impact of her work—my regret that she died so young, and so filled. He nodded, satisfied with his own examination. "Lacking an address, it was a way of communicating encouragement."

"She wrote as well as that?"

Scott nodded. "Yes. Her work had quality and was rich in mood and emotion." The tones wandered. "I found myself seeking hers first from the weekly submission. When she stopped coming I missed her manuscripts."

"How long had Sally Woods been in your group?" Jigger asked.

"Some months. Four, I'd say."

"When did she last attend class?"

"Two weeks ago."

Sons of Italy Notch 2nd Win, Game at Wilder Ends in 6-6 Tie

Sons of Italy notched their second Sunset Baseball League game in two starts last night when they downed the Floridan Co. squad, 9-1, before a crowd of about 100 at Jackson field last night.

A second Sunset League tilt between Hammond Iron and Youngsville Suppas at Wilder field ended in a 6-6 draw, with the game called at the end of seven innings on account of darkness.

Paul Smith was on the mound all the way for the Sons of Italy. He also was the winning pitcher for the team's opening game last week against Youngsville. Smith limited the opposition to five hits and issued two walks. He also led his team at the plate with two doubles and a single in four trips to drive in two runs.

Smith had a shutout going until the last frame when Irwin led off with a triple and scored on a single by Thompson.

Lyle started on the mound for Floridan, but was benched after one out when the Sons of Italy succeeded in loading the sacks. Ken Thompson took over and struck out the next two batters to put out the fire Sons of Italy, however, racked up five big runs in the second frame, and were never threatened.

Nonny Castagnino, playing third base for the winners was credited with an unassisted double play.

In the 6-6 draw at Wilder field, Hammond Iron outslugged Suppas, getting seven hits to the home team's four. Griffin was credited with a double for the Ironmen, while Gnage had a three-base wallop for Suppas.

Dick Baker was on the mound for Hammond Iron, while Jack Baker handled the pitching chores for Suppas.

1st Methodists Fighten Grasp on Top League Spot

In YMCA - Church Softball League action at Beatty field last night First Methodists tightened their hold on first place by trimming Sylvania, 8-1. The winners had a record of five wins and one defeat and Sylvania took a two-way tie with New Process, each with a 3-2 showing.

In a second game, the First Lutherans topped the Grace Methodists, 5-6, for their first win of the season. Bob Brumagin, who was selected in the eighth by Jack Updegraff, was credited with the win, and Main was the losing pitcher.

Both were also the big stick men, Brumagin slamming out three for three and Main two for three.

MIDDLE ATLANTIC

By The Associated Press

The Lockport Indians took a doubleheader from the Erie Sailors, Middle Atlantic League leaders, last night 7-2 and 12-5, and second place Niagara Falls beat Oil City 4-1 to creep within 6½ games of the leaders.

Lockport clipped two Sailor pitchers for nine hits in the first game then took the second as Emil Marion, third baseman, and Jesse Randal, shortstop, drove in seven runs between them. Bob Liika, Indian's second baseman got his fifth 1951 homer.

Fran Zeiss allowed Oil City only two hits as the Falls club won its second straight.

New Castle beat Butler 11-10 in a game that was made interesting by six homers. The victory leaves New Castle nine games out of first place.

Outstanding Film To Be Screened at Sportsmen's Meet

"Fishin' For Fun," a new two-reel sound motion picture starring Ben Hardesty, U. S. professional bait and fly-casting champion, will be shown to members of the Warren Field and Stream Club at the organization's June meeting tonight at Irvinedale School, Jackson street extension.

Bing Loding, chairman of the entertainment committee, said the film was obtained from the Detroit headquarters of the Fisher Body Division of General Motors. Described as an important contribution to fishing lore by conservation authorities, the film presents a comprehensive exhibition in the art of fishing and casting, encouraging participation in the sport and emphasizing the thrill every fisherman seeks.

The film shows an exciting display of angling for trout, bass, bonefish, sailfin and tarpon.

Three other films also will be shown tonight. They are: "How to Bring Up Your Puppy," "Silver Harvest" and "The Sport of Orienting."

The business session will start at 7:30 o'clock, with the entertainment to follow.

Cue Star Ready to Don Catching Mitt

Johnstown—(P)—Clarence Anderson loves sports, especially baseball. He's now in his 31st season as player-manager of the JoJo Junction semi-professional team near Kane.

Andy won his greatest fame in when he can don catching pads each season and coax a young pitcher along to victory. At 47 he is more than a match for most players half his age.

His hitting ability probably is the greatest factor keeping Andy in active competition.

Baseball seems to be in his blood. Andy says he'll be out there playing as long as he can squat behind home plate and whip the ball to second base.

Andy's greatest ambition 'is to pilot the JoJo team for 50 years.

First Lutheran to Hold Annual Picnic at Wildcat Saturday

The annual parish picnic of First Lutheran church will be held at Wildcat Park, Ludlow, next Saturday, June 16, with Gilbert Reiser, superintendent of the Sunday school, as general chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Louis Lind and Maurice Perry will handle transportation and announce cars will leave the church at 1:30, 2:30 and 5:00 o'clock, those wishing rides to contact them before the picnic day.

Games planned to entertain the children will be organized by Wayne Miller and a committee of six helpers, with fun promised for everyone. A special treat for the youngsters is being arranged by Deane Swanson, Jack Updegraff and John Kylander.

The Dorcas Club will be in charge of the tureen-picnic supper at six o'clock, when the committee will provide coffee, cream and sugar, milk, and ice cream.

All members of the parish are invited and urged to be present for an enjoyable outing.

Assistant Chief of U. S. Forest Service Research Is Named

Philadelphia—: Dr. Verne L. Harper, Director of the Northeastern Forest Experiment Station at Upper Darby, has been appointed assistant chief of the Forest Service in charge of research, the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced today.

Dr. Harper succeeds Edward I. Kotok, who resigned June 1 to take a position with the Food and Agriculture Organization in Chile, Lyle F. Watts, Chief Forest Service, stated.

In his new assignment which becomes effective July 1, Dr. Harper will coordinate all research activities of the Forest Service. He will supervise seven divisions in the Washington office, the Forest Products Laboratory at Madison, Wis., 12 regional forest and range experiment stations, 62 forest, water and range research centers and 102 experimental forests.

Since 1945 Dr. Harper has directed research carried on by the Northeastern Forest Experiment

HAS STELLAR ROLE IN EUROPEAN DEFENSE—Irwin Nicholson, son of Mrs. Alice Nicholson, 117 Main street, North Warren, and second lieutenant in the 12th Air Force in Germany, checks his map before he takes a "Thunderjet" off the runway at the 528th Fighter-Bomber Base. The picture was taken just before Lt. Nicholson left for home for a 30-day leave with family and friends. He arrived early last Friday morning and will return to the same base upon termination of his leave.

Station in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia and the six New England States. Prior to his appointment as station director, Dr. Harper served for eight years in the Washington office of the Forest Service. He helped plan national research programs, supervised nationwide surveys of forest resources and directed studies relating to forest economics.

Dr. Harper joined the Forest Service in 1927 as a junior forester.

"Thunderjet" aptly describes the F-84E fighter-bomber plane Lt. Nicholson flies, the ever-vigilant sentinel of the free skies over western Germany. In the largest transatlantic mass flight of jet aircraft ever attempted, the first of these planes were flown from the United States to Germany a few months ago to join the U. S. Air Forces in Europe under the command of Lt. Gen. Lauris Norstad. Since then, two Fighter-Bomber Wings of the U. S. 12th Air Force have been putting the versatile craft through her paces. The pilots, crew chiefs, and ground echelons of the 36th and 86th Wings, at bases deep in Bavaria, have studied the "Thunderjet", worked with her, flown her, and familiarized themselves with her power and capabilities.

They range the air from the sands of North Africa to the fjords of Norway like eagles hovering over their domain. Eagles they are, for the "talons" of their 32 high-velocity rockets are long, the "beaks" of their .50 calibre machine guns are sharp and effective, and their powerful "wings" carry them at speeds greater than 600 miles per hour and at altitudes higher than 45,000 feet. New F-84 groups are springing up in The Netherlands, France and Belgium to bolster the growing forces under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of the Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Powers in Europe, and the "Thunderjet" is playing a stellar role in the defense of western Europe, a formidable amalgamation of mobility and striking power against any would-be aggressor.

Men In Service

Relatives have received word that Rowell S. Hoff, 515 Water street, has been promoted to the grade of private first class. Leaving Warren on April 12, he is stationed at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

Word comes from the Far East Air Force headquarters in Japan that Pfc. Gerald W. Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric W. Nelson, 564 Crescent Park, has been assigned to the maintenance section of the 51st Fighter Interceptor Wing based in the south of that country. Pfc. Nelson, an arc welder and aircraft repairman, was stationed at Lowrey Air Force Base, Colo., prior to joining the Fifth Air Force Wing. The 51st has flown more than 11,000 F-50 combat missions over Korea in support of United Nations forces since its arrival in Japan. A graduate of Warren High School, Pfc. Nelson joined the Air Force in September, 1950.

In the first ceremony of Princeton University's 205th traditional commencement June 11, Lt. Gen. Willis D. Crittenger, commanding general of the First Army, awarded commissions to a record-breaking total of 102 seniors who have completed officers' training for the armed forces during their Princeton careers. Among 32 men commissioned as ensigns in the United States Navy was William C. Fuellhart, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Fuellhart, 406 West Third avenue, Warren.

Among 121 seniors who were candidates for Air Force commissions at Cornell University's 83rd annual commencement exercises June 11 was Thomas M. Hampson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hampson, 424 Conewango avenue, who also received his degree from the College of Arts and Sciences. The newly-commissioned second lieutenant will report July 27, 1951, for administration office duty at the Mitchell Air Force Base, New York.

Midshipman Louis C. Niederlander, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Niederlander, 108 Frank street, is one of the U. S. Naval Academy members participating in the annual summer training cruise for officer candidates in an eight-week tour of European and Cuban ports which got under way June 2. These cruises, providing varied on-the-job Navy experience, include two summers aboard seagoing vessels and one period of aviation and amphibious indoctrination.
